

Touching a truck without protection can kill you

Even walking near a truck can kill you

If a boom truck contacts an energized conductor, it can create deadly touch and step potentials. Rubber gloves or insulated footwear can protect you. Grounding the truck to the neutral reduces these hazards.

Scan the QR code for a short video on these and other ground-level hazards and how to avoid them

